Organisational Structure

The Department is managed by a Chief Statistician.

The Chief Statistician leads the strategic development of official statistics, through partnerships and development of stakeholder relations to improve the production of official statistics. Managing and coordinating the development of the national statistical system for Anguilla, by providing leadership in the setting of standards for the collection, compilation, interpretation, analysis and dissemination of social, cultural and economic data in accordance with the Statistics Act, regional and international principles and guidelines.

There are four (4) levels of statistical positions within the Department. These are:

- Statisticians
- Senior Statistical Officers
- Statistical Officers/Census Officer
- Statistical Assistants/Census Assistant
